Distribution moving forward will be completed via grade-level secretaries, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Tucker. Also, students whose chrome books need repair are to contact tech via the following link:

Model UN

On Friday, December 5, 2025, Winslow's Model UN students attended a trip to New York to visit the JPMorgan Library and the United Nations Headquarters. The Morgan Library and Museum started as the personal library of financier J.P. Morgan and today is a museum and research library in Midtown Manhattan.

Students viewed an extraordinary collection of rare books, illuminated medieval and Renaissance manuscripts, historical documents, and literary manuscripts, including early drafts and letters by famous authors. The museum also displays old master drawings, prints, paintings, and unique art objects from ancient to modern times. Highlights often include treasures like Gutenberg Bibles, finely bound early printed books, and beautifully decorated manuscripts, all shown in elegant, Gilded Age interiors that blend art, history, and architecture. In the afternoon, students participated in a guided tour of the United Nations Headquarters in New York where students gained a firsthand look at how global diplomacy works in action. During the visit, students were given access to iconic spaces such as the General Assembly Hall and the Security Council Chamber, where representatives from countries around the world meet to address international issues. Guided by knowledgeable, multilingual tour leaders, students learned about the history, mission, and role of the United Nations in promoting peace, human rights, and global cooperation. The experience brought our classroom lessons to life and helped students better understand the importance of international collaboration in today's world

Model Senate Program

WTHS Model UN delegates also participated in a Model Senate Program on Wednesday, December 17, 2025, at Temple University. Model Senate is a high school role-playing program focused on the discussion, debate, and presentation of policy solutions to pressing global issues facing the United States. Students step into the shoes of a United States Senator or expert witness to address pressing global challenges. 2025 Model Senate focused on the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources. The next competition for this team will be at Moorestown High School on Saturday, January 31, 2026!

Nurse's Corner

As we move through cold and flu season, it is important to take simple but effective steps to reduce the spread of common infections such as norovirus, flu, and COVID-19. These viruses spread easily in shared spaces, but prevention starts with everyday habits. Frequent handwashing is one of the most effective ways to stop the spread of illness. Wash hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds, especially after using the restroom, before eating, and after coughing or sneezing. If you are experiencing symptoms such as fever, vomiting, diarrhea, cough, or sore throat, you should remain home until you are symptom free. This helps protect others and reduces outbreaks in schools and workplaces. Covering coughs and sneezes with a tissue or the inside of the elbow helps limit the spread of respiratory droplets. Wearing a mask when experiencing mild symptoms or during periods of high illness activity can also help reduce transmission. Regular cleaning and disinfecting of frequently touched surfaces, such as doorknobs, desks, keyboards, and shared equipment plays a key role in prevention. Finally, staying up to date on recommended vaccinations, including flu and COVID-19 vaccines, helps reduce the severity of illness and protects vulnerable individuals in the community. By practicing good hygiene, staying home when sick, and looking for one another, we can help keep our school and community healthy throughout the year.
